Kotov, chief of the section of party, trade union, and communal organs of the Oblast Party Committee and chairman of the mandate commission, gave the report of the commission. He pointed out that the delegates to the conference included 20 kolkhoz chairmen 2 Heroes of the Soviet Union, one Laureate of the Stalin Prize, 2 deputies to the Supreme Soviet USSR, 9 deputies to the Supreme Soviet Kazakh SSR, and 36 women delegates. Fifty-four percent of the delegates have had higher and secondary school education. Many peoples of the USSR, including Russians, Kazakhs, Ukrainians, and Jews, were represented among the delegates. The conference unanimously approved the report of the mandate commission.

Belenov, secretary of the Oblast Party Committee, spoke on achievements in Party education. Attendance at political schools and study groups has not increased more than 60-70 percent since the last oblast Party conference, and there is still too much liberalism among those who are shunning Party training. Svyedoshch, secretary of the Leninogorsk City Party Committee, criticized several sections of the Oblast Party Committee, including the propaganda and agitation, agricultural planning, finance, and trade sections, for their failure to maintain close contact with city and rayon Party committees.

The following delegates also spoke at the morning session: Karsakbayev, secretary, Party organization at "Kazakhstanets" Kolkhoz, Predgornenskiy Rayon; Izyumov, director, "Kazles" (Kazakh Timber) Trust; Bogatov, director, Leninogorsk Polymetallic Combine; Dodin, secretary, Party organization at the zinc plant; Mukhtarov, director, Berezhovskiy Mine; Podovinnikov, secretary, Verkh-Ubinskiy Rayon Party Committee; and Inyushin, construction chief, Ust'-Kamenogorsk GES.

Evening Session, 17 February -- Bol'shevik Altaya, No 34, 19 Feb 49

The discussion on the reports of Pazikov and Razuvayev begun yesterday was continued at the evening session on 17 February. The following delegates spoke: Adamov, chairman, Executive Committee of the Oblast Soviet of Workers' Deputies; Kasymov, secretary, Markakul'skiy Rayon Party Committee; Aronovich, director, "Altaystroy" (Altay Construction) Trust; Degtyarev, chief, Oblast Agriculture Administration; Torgovetskiy, chairman, Oblast Consumer's Union; Mollybayev, chief, Oblast Department of National Education; Palkin, chief, Oblast Health Department; and Klimenko, director, "Altayenergo" (Altay Power).

At the end of the session, Kerimbayev, chairman of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet Kazakh SSR and member of the Bureau of the TsK KP(b) Kazakhstan, gave a comprehensive report on the oblasts economic development and the duties of Party and soviet organizations in furthering this development. He particularly cited the lag in industrial construction and mentioned the progress and problems of the mining, local, and cooperative industries, agriculture and animal husbandry, and local soviets. Party organizations in the oblast must improve the activity of the local soviets and assist them in modernizing their administration. The Oblast Party Committee must make a special effort to train Kazakh workers for higher positions in industry. The number of Kazakhs working in industry and construction projects of the oblast is extremely low and there are particularly few Kazakhs among engineering, technical, and administrative personnel in industry.

Thirty-five of the 56 delegates registered at the conference spoke in the discussions. After a short concluding speech by Pazikov, the conference declared the work of the Oblast Party Committee to be satisfactory on a proposal made by delegate Petukhov. The evening session ended with nominations of candidates for membership on the oblast committee, the auditing
